me to repeat different techniques, which he would later go home and practice. So you could say I was the very first person to show Q-Bert scratch techniques, incorporating tricks and wacky mixes I'd recorded on tape at the time.

It was around that time I got very tired of getting yelled at by my mother to go to school, so I met up with a group of friends and we decided to start a band. I ran away from home to join up with these people and him. I also heard negative night took place at L'AMOURS Carrock club in Bklyn. The first one had a REAL right-wing feel. Headlining that night was Carnivore. As a young black male, I went the fuck off. All the true skins in the house were kicking the shit outta mazi's. I snuffed mad kids that night. Finally, I was thrown out the club for surfing and punching a singer in L.A. mug. Racism sucks no matter whose doing it. Black or white, that shit's gotta stop. And if it can't be stopped, then let it be known that it's not tolerated. Nah, I'm not politically correct, or any of that crap. I just follow my beliefs and act accordingly.

Negative night?

How did you get started?

I was first exposed to graffiti in 6th grade. I'm 30 now, you do the math. The first writer I knew was a classmate who wrote "Rabbi". He wrote for a few years whose names escape me now. He did my first out-re for me. My first tag was Kato, I was a big Bruce Lee fan at the time. As time went on, I must have changed my name a zillion times. The name I bombed the most with was SKV. Now I write karma.

What style do you prefer and why?

I prefer wild style burners. Due to the fact that they express your creativity better. I can let my mind play things a self made burner. If it catches your attention, cool.

IL: When did Justice League start?

Early '84. The original lineup was Trevor-vocals, Ted-guitar, Ryan-bass, and Skip-drums. The first show was at the Cathay de Grande with DRI and Ill Repute.

IL: Did members move onto other bands?

Chris has done the most since Justice League, being the drum whore that he is (HA!) No For An Answer, Chain of Strength, Pollen Art, Statue, Inside Out, Wool, Other Star People. It looks like he's playing guitar now in Cheater. Ryan was in Chain of Strength & Circle Storm. Jon Roa was in End to End. Matt Baker (last JL tour guitarist) was in Apology and is currently in Agnes Gooch. John McKeown (last JL tour bassist) was in Pollen Art. I've done Pollen Art, Splitfinger, and now currently, Blender. Casey played drums in No For An Answer, Ignite, and now he's also joined Blender.

IL: ICITY: FAVORITE MOVIE?

I have 2 kids so I don't get out much... The Wedding Singer was cool. It was set in 1985 so most of the humor hit home with me. I graduated high school that year.

IL: Why ARE you popular in Boston?!

I don't know that we really are (were?) We played some good shows there on tour. The Rat in '86 with Descendents and Dag Nasty and TT the Bears two nights with 7 Seconds in '87. Justice League was based in Pomona, CA.

IC: WHATS your favorite thing ABOUT HARDCORE?

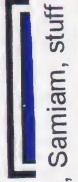

GUIDE TO ETHERNET CONNECTIVITY FOR THE NEWBIE WOMAN

Probably just the fact that anyone could start a band and get out and play shows. It's a lot different now though, than when we started.

NO LIMITS

IC: WHAT SANDS ARE YOU INTO NOW ADAYS?

CONTINUITY!

I still listen to a lot of the same stuff I have been for 10-15 years. Right now I like Knapsack, Samiam, stuff like that.
